- Normal leveling or flattening out of filling materials, which occur in normal use of the mattress, are not covered in the warranty.
- Body impressions in any new mattress indicates the upholstery layers are conforming to your body's individual contours. These are not structural defects but normal occurrences in the superior performance of a mattress.
- These impressions will be more noticeable on Queen and King sized mattresses.

BREAK-IN PERIOD — Please note: In order to provide equal support, the heavier body parts must sink further into the sleep system than the lighter body parts. When this occurs, your bed's outside cover must stretch or "conform" to the unique shape of your body as it accomplishes a state of equilibrium in your new sleep system. The stretching or "conforming" of your cover is a natural part of the breaking-in process for your new bed system. Normally this takes from 4-12 weeks and will vary according to your body proportions, size, type of system, and the fill level you have chosen. Covers which have stretched and conformed to accommodate this natural process (and provide you with contoured support benefits) are not considered defective and are not covered under warranty.
